PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Welcome and thank you for joining the Canadian Institute of Planners (CIP)!

You are now part of a national network of planners and planning students who strive to effect positive change and are dedicated to the advancement of excellence in the planning profession.

I believe that there has never been a more important time to be a planner. As the national voice on professional planning, CIP is working diligently to ensure that our profession is actively shaping and contributing to the most critical issues of today and tomorrow.

We are stronger when we work together and I'm so pleased that you are with us!

Dan Huang RPP, MCIP

ABOUT US

CIP works on behalf of over 7,500 planning professionals and has served as the voice of Canada's planning community since 1919. CIP advocates for planners nationally and internationally, and provides membership services that help planners – and aspiring planners – advance their careers.

THINGS TO KNOW

MCIP® TITLE

Only individuals who have met all the professional certification requirements of their Provincial and Territorial Institute and Association (PTIA), and are members in good standing with both their PTIA and CIP, are permitted to use MCIP® in their professional title. Show your pride with an official seal.

PLANNING PRIORITIES

In recent years, CIP has been focusing its work on five key policy priorities: Equity, Diversity, & Inclusion (EDI), Truth & Reconciliation, Climate Change, Healthy Communities, and Housing. As a result, CIP has developed the Equity, Diversity and Inclusion Roadmap and three national policies to guide planners' work on Climate Change Planning, Healthy Communities, and Planning Practice and Reconciliation. These priorities are also reflected in our brand-new Strategic Plan: 1,835 Days of Impact. With this plan, CIP reaffirms its support of inclusive and vibrant communities, respectfully connected to the natural world, for the well-being of current and future generations.

VOLUNTEERING & NETWORKING

As a member of CIP, you have access to volunteer opportunities to get involved in national committees and juries, as well as to represent CIP on external projects and organizations. CIP also has two LinkedIn groups that members may join — general and international planning — that provide additional networking, volunteering, and learning opportunities.

SPECIALTIES, SKILLS & YOUR PREFERENCES

Keep your CIP member profile current throughout the year by reviewing “My Profile” in the Member Console. You can update your contact information, indicate your specialties and skills, and make changes to your preferences for how you appear in the membership directory.

GOVERNANCE & TRANSPARENCY

CIP is a not-for-profit organization, governed by a 13-member Board of Directors. Following each Board meeting, a summary is emailed to members through the Board Bulletin. Annual Reports can also be found online, which include key accomplishments and audited financial statements. All members are welcome to attend CIP's Annual General Meeting, normally held at the national planning conference.

RESOURCES

PROFESSIONAL LEARNING HUB

The Professional Learning HUB is accessible to all CIP members, on demand, with no additional fees. This centralized site includes recorded webinar and conference presentations, resources, and documents. Organized by subject, it is ideal for accessing free Continuous Professional Learning (CPL) content and sourcing best practices in planning from across the country.

PLAN CANADA

Plan Canada is the premier planning magazine in Canada and the official magazine of CIP. Published every quarter, and available for free to members in digital and hard copy formats, the magazine features informative articles on innovative projects and research in Canadian planning. Members are always encouraged to contribute to the magazine and are provided information on upcoming issues and themes in advance.

CANADIAN PLANNING AND POLICY JOURNAL

The profession's scholarly publication project, undertaken by CIP and the Association of Canadian University Planning Programs, is an open-access, digital, bilingual and peer-reviewed journal with a double-blind review process run by an editorial team of distinguished scholars. Canadian Planning and Policy regularly publishes manuscripts reflecting the scope and diversity of planning theory and practice in Canada.

CAREERS IN PLANNING

CIP's national job board, Careers in Planning, is a repository of job postings for all career levels – from senior-level planning positions to student internships. Members can also sign up for new job alerts, post their résumés, and access the National Compensation and Benefits Survey.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Members receive a discounted rate for CIP's annual national planning conferences, bringing planners together from across the country – and the world – to learn and network. Attendance at sessions, workshops, learning tours, and keynote speakers can all be applied towards CPL units.

WEBINARS

CIP's CPL Webinar Program provides its members year-round learning opportunities at discounted rates. Covering a wide range of topics, these live broadcasts feature new and progressive perspectives on current and emerging planning issues.

BENEFITS

ZONING TRILOGY

Access North America's top zoning reference guide and planning term dictionary to better understand the complexities of land use regulations. CIP members receive free, personal subscriptions to Zoning Trilogy, valued at $99. Find the discount code in the Member Console.

INSURANCE DISCOUNTS

Professional liability insurance is available to all professional members through BMS. As an added benefit, pro bono legal advice on planning-related questions is also available to those participating in the BMS Professional Liability Insurance Program.

CIP is proud to partner with The Personal to offer members preferential rates on home and auto insurance.

Find the full list of membership benefits in the CIP Member Console.
